Foreword

When I first encountered the Old Ones, I felt warmth and intense life force. Blue ThunderBeings, flashing jovial. Since then, I've heard many stories of those my family refer to as the Seven Sisters Star Nation. I share what I know from the depths of my heart and soul.

I was brought up and educated in a traditional Native American landscape. I am half Apache, and, thanks to my grandfather, I have intimate relationship with many of the ancient teachings that lived long before the conquest. When I was five, I was bitten by a rattlesnake, and while my grandfather treated me with the medicine plants of earth, my mind danced through star imagery. On several occasions I was present during discussions help by the elders concerning our starseed origins. At other times, by "coincidences," I was present during ceremonies where manifestation of our older relatives would make themselves known. In short, this book is based on experiences that relay information esoteric in nature and touching directly upon themes of contemporary discussion.

I entered the Doorway of the Snake when I was seventeen, and it was at this time that I experienced my first trans-universal vortex. My own time-warping skills became acute, and I vowed that I would someday share the beauty and relevance of what I was shown, which can only be understood by opening the eart as the mind of truth.

Since then I have become an intimate charter of time, working in the traditional manner of ceremonial healer and storyteller, for which I have been honored by many varying sections of society. I have lectured in universities and teach through alternative organizations, concentrating more and more on humanity's evolutionary maturation and the transmigration of Earth in prophesized changes. My books have laid the groundwork and continue to build on the teachings, one step within and without with each.

Next to science, perhaps, the mystical dreams of faraway reality are the most useful and dramatic reference of star speculation and symbolic record. Everyone wonders about Star Life history – identifying starseed origin suddenly commonplace in conversations, to align in circles of purpose for all to see, a name that foretells a destiny, or photography to daydream over. Our Ancestors of now, or Star Nations, or the Old Ones, walk here with us, and know our hearts.

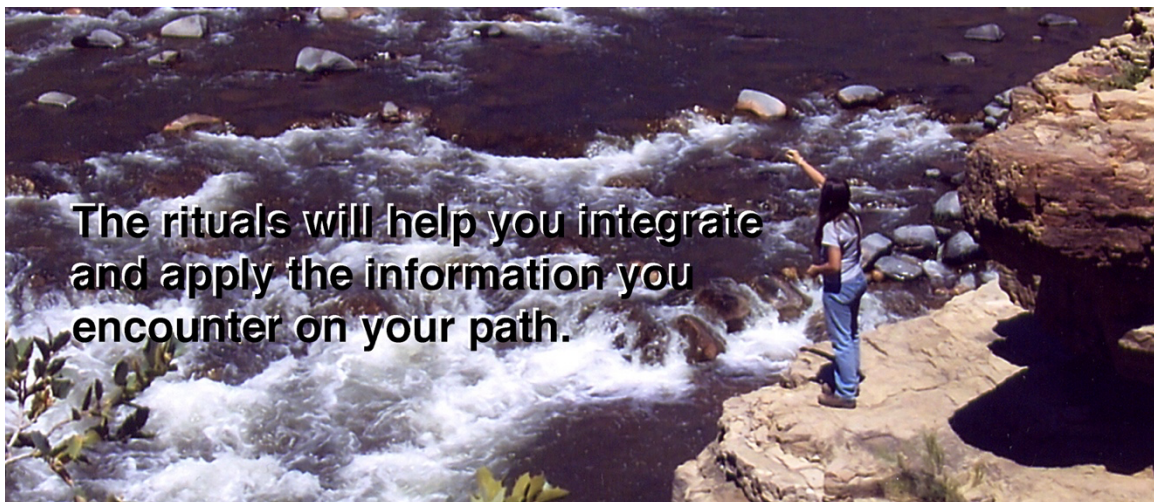

And for this reason, the journey that leads us home has its own identifying manner of communion that is comprehensive and reveals purpose. To ensure such identification, for centuries our dreams have asked us to review stunning possibilities that have often found their way into books, music and movies. The television series “Star Trek” dreamed by Gene Roddenbury – used speculation tints and visionary shading to achieve three generations of Starseed Activation so far, and it continues with each refilming, or newly written chapter in his continued vision by many.

An introduction to universal legacy was instilled by legends of Gods and humans who dared to bridge conscious realms of reality. The beauty began with the missing link in human evolutionary development on Earth. Following a prayer made visual – the Song of Names and Spaces, danced a rhythm of change across Four Worlds of existence, fashioning a moment in time that bears testimony to inspirational revelation.

Starseed Origin – a necessary remembering among humans, is a concept growing.

Preceding vital information, came triggers of breathtaking art, legends, and soul quality, created a reflection of forgotten memories. Each depicting an in-depth story in the unimaginable journey that began over 15 billion years ago in a simple choice made by a unified mind. The result, a provocative, stimulating history of family, planet, and all of time.

Together, our beauty accesses the whole of the universe, and the cornucopia of wisdom embodied in the ancient quest contained in the starseed thematic, guaranteeing that this moment in history will bring a new appreciation of our rich multifaceted existence.

Story: Scattering the Sisters

The 7 Sisters hold a special significance in nearly every culture, tradition, and civilization known through history. Their presence in the desert sky of the American Southwest, let's the Time Charters of my tribe, the Apache, know the New Year cycles have begun the revolution of time rotation... we're going cyclic! The annual preparations and ceremonies of winter dreaming reality into being are held.

Stories from around the world regarding this constellation are some of the most beautiful legends in the world, titillating the human imagination with thoughts of romance, creation and power.

The mythology of the Pleiades in most Native American cosmologies chart the evolution not only of humanity, but the Changing Mother Earth, herself. Through mystical dreams and half memories humans carry the history of past lifetimes and otherworldly.

There is a story my cousin told me when I was growing up about how the Pleiades were placed in the sky by a beetle. Of all the tales I have heard, this is, without a doubt, my favorite.

The story goes that Beetle once served Creator as a type of galactic MapMaker. Every night he would go out on a great walk with a basket of small crystals of many colors. He would walk with his basket until he has lost his way in the deep stillness of the night. There he would throw handfuls of the crystals up into the sky where they would stick and form fire constellations to light the way.

One night Creator came to Beetle and gave him eight only. Creator explained that with these special crystals a new legacy would begin.

And so Beetle again began a nightly walk carrying his assignment with him, until he was hopelessly lost. Since this was such a special assignment, he drummed and sang for awhile before tossing his charge in the air.

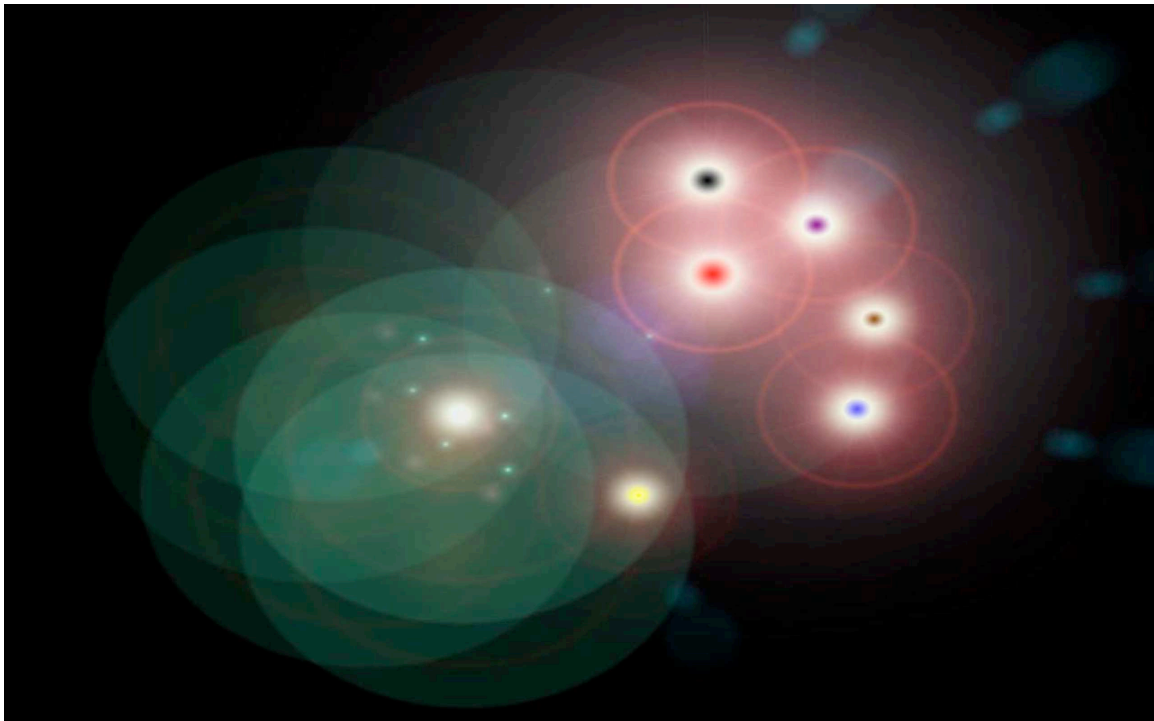

The crystals hung there – at about three levels – then started whirling as if part of the great summer Wheel Dance.

A great light show exploded and the faces of Wolf, Bear, Eagle, Deer, Puma, Condor, Snake and Turtle could be seen.

Now you can see them clearly in the November fall skies; with one exception, the Turtle. It is said in legends that the youngest sister fell in love with a Coyote, the Magician of Time and Space. Going to him, she fell from the Sisters' orbit into another galaxy.

Now in the fall skies, the 7 Sisters dance sending their HeartFires far and wide, calling to their lost sisters to return home once more. Of course, many know Earth to be that lost sister returning no in transmigrational splendor.

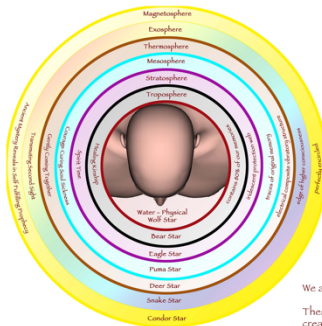

Look as they rise, up rise!
Over the horizon where the sky meets Earth;
Seven Sisters!
See! They are coming down, coming to guide us,
Leading us safely, uniting us as one.
Oh, Seven Sisters
Awaken us to be,
8th Star Sister, returned home.

Wolf Star Clan

Those of the Wolf Star Clan origin, carry the crystalline information of the transmigration. They often become teachers, teachers, carry medicine bundles, and find themselves tracking the cycles of Earth for the information to be revealed in the alignment. The power color of Wolf People is red. Theirs is a destiny to gather, develop, maintain and teach the knowledge of loyalty, protection, security, ability to keep up to date intelligence on the surrounding and supportive environment, to function as part of the group while maintaining one's own individuality, and personal habitat.

It has been suggested that the power of the landscape in our initiations are spun in the night callings of the Wolf People... echoing through our dreams, inviting us through the Portal of Life on Earth. This stimulates previously non-working sense to awaken and pulse with the 5th World's double ozone energies as Earth-Human Resonance re-engages the re-evolution flow of the magma core. Their myth begins at the Pacific Ocean and goes to the San Francisco Mountains, and at present the Power Codes of Awakening lie within that region.

7 Atmospheric Bodies

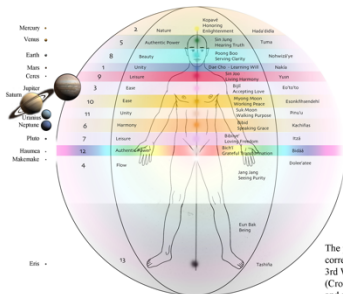

We awaken each layer to short wave, high frequency spectrum!

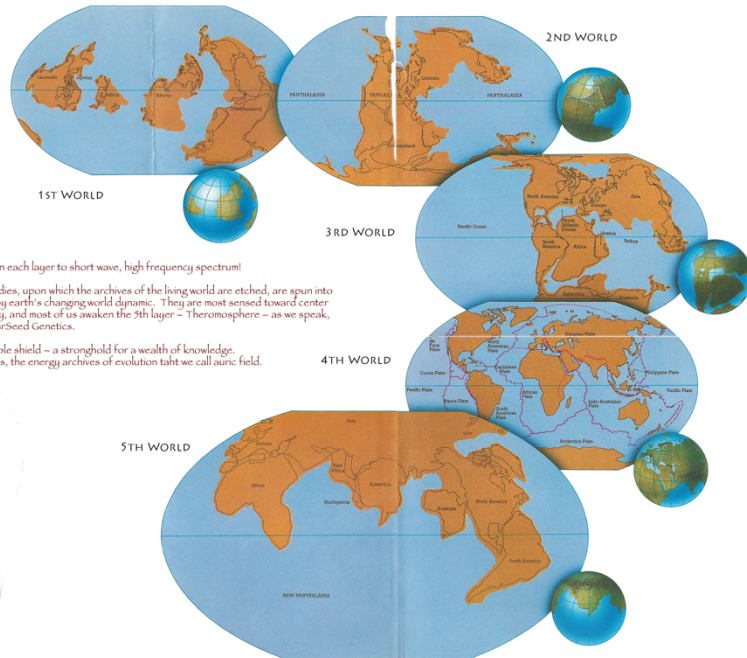

These bodies, upon which the archives of the living world are etched, are spun into creation by earth's changing world dynamic. They are most sensed toward center physicality, and most of us awaken the 9th layer - Thermosphere - as we speak, to our StarSeed Genetics.

Every Ah-Kine develops an invisible shield - a stronghold for a wealth of knowledge. These are our atmospheric bodies, the energy archives of evolution that we call auric field.

Tlsh Diyan Kyong Solar System Planetary Configuration

The purpose and information that each kyong/chakra carries is determined by the solar planetary correlation. In origin of our physicality, during the First World of Earth History, 2nd World and 3rd World activity was interaction of a higher order. Out of this, Kyong 1 (Throat - Mars), 2 (Crown - Mercury), and 3 (Heart - Jupiter) bear the greatest influence in our 5th World transition and more terrestrial in their information.

From Grandfather Joe Montoya

Since 1995, the year of Maria Yracébûrû's haquini – Standing in Power – she has expanded into many roles – Native sage, healing artist, consummate ceremonialist, beautiful shima, and above all a Dreamer of Evolution. In ritual, Maria seamlessly plaits together self-actualizing humor, logistical evolution, tlish diyen love, painting vision and even raucously chasing kids giggling. At the same time, her writings provide a kind of timeless spiritual map for evolving humans. She is an inspirational idealist and life-scout who pretty much leaves people to experience their own unfolding at their own rate and design. Rather than giving us answers, she questions and offers a view of life patterning similarities to give us tools of empowerment. Children, elders, and everyone in between is changed forever.
